

Evidence-based Addiction Treatment for Substance Use and Co-occurring Disorders

We approach addiction as a chronic, but treatable, brain disease. We recognize that patients require an individual approach to lay the foundation for long term recovery and work with all community support partners including 12-step, SMART Recovery, and others.

The initial step in treatment includes a comprehensive assessment including investigation of any co-occurring psychiatric disorders followed by discussion of treatment options that may include FDA-approved addiction medications, brief therapy, virtual cognitive assessment, convenient at-home laboratory monitoring, and collaboration with other community providers. We may also assist with direct referrals should additional care be needed to support the individual.

We know that a one-size-fits-all approach does not work, especially when treating substance use and co-occurring disorders. Our highly trained providers meet our patients, wherever they are, to better understand the shared goal of treatment and create an individualized plan based on these goals and needs.

We currently provide treatment with most available FDA-approved addiction medications
